

PEOPLE NEWS

By Vickki Dozier

In and around Lansing MSU grads honored by industry

Five Michigan State University School of Hospitality alumni will be inducted into the school's Alumni Association Wall of Fame Nov. 7 at the Celebration of Leadership, scheduled during The International Hotel/Motel and Restaurant Show in New York. These hospitality business leaders have distinguished themselves by their "foresight and innovation." They have been designated as the "Class of Innovators."

The 1999 Wall of Fame class includes Dan Darrow (MBA '61), president of Palm Hospitality Company, a subsidiary of the Walt Disney Company; Michael Getto (BA '56), director-franchising, Suburban Lodge/Guesthouse International; Jerry McVety (BA '67), president of McVety & Associates, a division of HDS Services; William Morgan (BA '52), senior executive vice president of Elias Brothers Restaurants, Inc.; and John Weeman Jr., (MBA '79), vice president of Hilton Hotels Corp.

The 1999 Celebration of Leadership also will include the recognition of Michael Leven, president and CEO of U.S. Franchise Systems Inc., as the school's 1999 Industry Leader of the Year. Frank Arthur Banks (BA '61, MBA '62), the RIHGA Royal Hotel's general manager and a Wall of Fame Class of founders member, will host the ceremonies at the RIHGA Royal Hotel in New York. The Celebration of Leadership will include a reception and a luncheon followed by the formal inductions.

E. Lansing artist displays work

East Lansing artist Susan Hensel was invited to show her book/sculpture "Bloodlines" at the ARC Gallery in Chicago. The sculpture uses Susan's handmade paper and original text. The show runs through July 31.

Susan has, in the past year, shown her work in nine states and one foreign country. Locally she continues to show at Trillium Gallery, Todd Mack Custom Framing Gallery, Conifer Gallery and on the Internet at www.artispace.com.

Trillium Gallery is handling her newest limited-edition books, "Creation" and "Brush Your Teeth." Trillium also has "Making Memory Books by Hand," by Kristina Feliciano, featuring a six-page spread on making Susan's limited-edition artists book, "My House." The original artist's book also is on display at Trillium.

July 25, 1999

A&E

Hensel's Book Sculpture in Chicago Show

East Lansing artist Susan Hensel was invited to show her book/sculpture entitled Bloodlines at the ARC Gallery in Chicago. The sculpture uses Hensel's handmade paper and original text.

This is the sixth year of the ARC REGIONAL exhibition, showing art in all media from 53 artists living in the Midwest. The show runs through July 31.

Susan Hensel has, in the last year, shown her work in nine states and one foreign country. Locally she continues to show at Trillium Gallery, Todd Mack Custom Framing Gallery, Conifer Gallery and on the Internet at www.artispace.com.

Trillium Gallery is handling her newest edition books, Creation and Brush Your Teeth. Trillium also has Making Memory Books by Hand, by Kristina Feliciano, featuring a six page spread on making Susan's limited edition artists book, My House. The original artists book is also on display at Trillium.